JURORS HOLD SHIP BEYOND JURISDICTION

The rum runner, Coal Harbor, and her crew were freed by a verdict of a jury sitting in the court of Judge Frank H. Kerrigan in San Francisco, one hour after the government had closed its case which it had been carefully building up.

The jury held that the ship at the time of her capture was beyond an hour's sailing time from any port and therefore out of the jurisdiction of the United States courts. The government admitted that the ship was beyond the 12-mile limit when seized.

As soon as C. C. Chamberlain, foreman of the jury, had pronounced the verdict the attorneys representing the owners of the Coal Harbor asked that the bonds of her captain and crew be exonerated. This was done, Judge Kerrigan stating that so long as the court was declared to have no jurisdiction it was the only action he could take.

The jury was asked to answer the following questions: Whether the Coal Harbor or alleged to convey alcohol or alcoholic liquors to the United States, either under her own power or through contact boats. Their answer to this was that she did so intend.

Whether she intended to land the liquor herself. The answer to this was "no."

WILL REOPENED WHEN BANKER'S LETTER FOUND

PITTSBURG, March 7.—With administration of the estate of Carlo Lepori, Pittsburgh banker, who died in November, 1925, about to be closed, Lepori's will, discovered recently in the possession of an aunt, Mrs. Kate S. Oneto of Sonora, was filed in Superior Court today, thus forcing institution of new proceedings and changing the disposition of his $40,000 worth of property.

The will, written in the form of a letter while Lepori was ill in a San Diego hospital and dated November 3, 1925, nine days before his death, had been in the aunt's possession since but she did not realize its legal significance and it was not until recently that its existence became known.

The petition for probate of the will was filed today by Lepori's widow, Mrs. Marion Lepori. Under the original administration she was to receive the bulk of the bank's estate, but under the will much of the property is devised to others.

The will specifies that $5000 is to be given to the building fund of the Pittsburgh Catholic Church, $5,000 to a fund for a Masonic Temple at Pittsburgh, $1000 to an aunt, Miss Louisa Lepori, and $500 to Mrs. Angela Morell of Barcelona, Spain, who nursed Lepori through an illness as a youth.

In the course of settlement of the estate Marian A. Lepori, the widow, assigned to the father, Carlo Lepori, a $25,000 insurance policy written with the widow named as the beneficiary and if the terms of the latest document are carried out literally the young widow will receive virtually nothing in the settlement of the estate.

As to the plans of the father to carry out the letter's request for the $5,000 memorial to Lepori's mother and sister and also to leave $5,000 in his (the father's) memory to start a Masonic temple building fund in Pittsburgh, nothing has been learned.

Marian Lepori, the widow, today filed petition to be named administratrix with the will annexed through her attorneys Wade Moore and H. H. Donovan.

Supreme Court Re-Hearing On Toll Bridges Is Set For Apr. 4

MARTINEZ, 7.—The California Supreme Court has fixed April 4 as the time for presentation of arguments before it on a rehearing in the court's decision on the so-called "Northern California Development Company's suit" in which the principle was laid down that concerns organized under California law for construction of toll bridges and other toll structures must specifically state in their articles of incorporation the purpose for which they were organized and the exact points where the business is to be transacted. Word of the fixing of the hearing was received here today by District Attorney A. B. Tinning and Attorneys J. E. Rodgers and A. F. Bray.

The petition for the rehearing was presented to the court by Tinning, because of confusion caused on pending bridge applications and was promptly followed by attorneys for bridge and other toll companies, among them some of the largest corporations of their kind in California, intervening and filing briefs as "friends of the court."

Corporation attorneys viewed the decision with alarm, some holding that the court's determination that "general phraseology" in articles of incorporation was insufficient, jeopardized holdings, nullified the effects of franchise grants and made the collection of tolls illegal.

The court's opinion on declaration of purpose in articles of incorporation was made in an appeal the Northern California Development Company made from a (Continued on Page Eight)

FRENCH FLIERS LAND IN S. F. ON WORLD HOP

(By Universal Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Completing a non-stop flight from Rock Springs, Wyoming, Captain Oudonne Costes and Lieut. Joseph LeBrix, French round-the-world fliers, landed at the municipal airport here in their giant plane "Nungesser-Coll" shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon. The fliers left Rock Springs this morning.

Several thousand persons, including relatives of the airmen and city officials were on hand to greet the fliers upon their arrival.

Costes and LeBrix left France October 15, 1927. They flew to Africa and then to Brazil. Leaving Brazil, the fliers flew to Central America and then to New York.

They planned a transatlantic flight from New York to France, but adverse weather conditions caused them to plan a flight across the continent to San Francisco.

The steamer Korea, leaving here March 15, will carry Costes and LeBrix and their plane to Japan. From Japan, the airmen will fly across Asia and Europe to France.

Tomorrow morning, the official reception to Costes and LeBrix will be held in the city hall, with Mayor James Rolph, Jr. conducting the ceremonies.

Mrs. Henry J. Hill, president of the City club of Oakland, also was one of the speakers. Mrs. H. J. Suratt of Oakland, entertained with vocal solos. Hostesses were Mrs. H. Ward Campbell, director of the club board and Mrs. John R. Sutton, president of the Oakland council, Parent-Teacher association.

CONGRESS OVERREACHED

Two years ago, congress in its ambition to increase postal revenue put into effect a two-cent post card charge with the net result that the revenue was largely decreased and a considerable portion of what had been postal business went by express. Congress also sought to increase postal revenues by increasing the rates on newspaper mail. Inasmuch as a fundamental of the department from the foundation of the service has been low cost of newspapers this increase operated to increase the bad feelings of injustice on the part of the newspapers. That was unfortunate perhaps, but more important, considering that the new rate was adopted to increase revenue was that by reason of the increase thirty million pounds of revenue-producing mail had been lost by the post-office to the railroads, trucking and express companies.

The American newspaper publisher is not in the habit of asking favors. The shoe is generally on their readers. It is to be hoped that with these facts and figures in mind congress will correct the injustice this session.

Ten years ago the costumes the girl now wear on the streets were used on the bathing beaches. In view of the increasing traffic problem it is to be hoped that ten years hence the street costumes will not be patterned after the present feminine bathing suits.

Our idea of a temperamental fellow is one who the other foot, but the present congressional postal rate virtually imposed a war tax on the publishers and will get mad over a game of croquet.

Those who criticize Col. Lindbergh for doing "stunts" might remember that a good many performances which are "stunts" for other people are mere routine procedure for him.

Vigorous Health

RAW FOODS

Many jokes have been passed by epicures, gourmands and plain gluttons at the expense of raw food eaters, likening them to horses, cows, rabbits, etc. Yet most animals have sense enough not to overeat and to fast when they are sick, hence there is no great reflection upon one's intelligence in being likened to one of these four-footed cousins.

There is, however, in the minds of many people, a wholly unfounded prejudice against raw foods, merely because they have always been accustomed to cooked foods and fancy they would not like or could not digest the raw ones.

It is an absolute fact that raw foods contain more of the vital mineral elements than any cooked food, and if more of the raw ones were eaten there would be much less sickness. Various tests have proved that most raw foods are as easily digested as cooked ones if they are thoroughly masticated. Even if they were not as easily digested this would be nothing against them, as the digestion would become weakened if never required to do any work. Try changing gradually to a raw food diet or use part raw and part cooked foods, with the preference given to the former. Better health will result.

It is advisable for a woman past 45 years of age to marry when she has a naval rupture and is anemic? What can be done where the nose turns very red on entering a warm room?—L. G. M.

It is not advisable for any one to marry unless they have normal health. The anemia and the red nose indicates a toxic condition. The usual natural treatment in such a case would be an orange diet for three or four days with daily enema, then the milk diet or several weeks, then another orange diet and a largely raw fruit, vegetable and milk diet. Abdominal exercises are taken head down on a slanting board, and a cool sitz bath and if possible, a nude sun bath is taken daily. If unable to obtain sun baths, ultra-violet radiations should be used.

CHECKING MISTAKES

As the camper was cleaning his gun along came a woodsman. "Been hunting today?" the latter asked. "Yes." "Shooting anything?" "I don't know yet. I'm waiting for the rest of the party to get into camp, so we can call them as equal and it will never betray you."

DADDY DUSK

Twinnie was fast asleep, dreaming that she was in the Spirit of St. Louis flying through the air with Lindy.

She was holding on to the controls for dear life. Lindy turned around again. "I told you to let go the controls."

Twinnie dropped the stick she was holding tightly in her hand. "That's better," Lindy shouted back.

Twinnie was so thrilled she simply couldn't do anything but hold her breath. Here she was, flying over the country with Lindy. And no other girl had ever been able to get included in the "We."

Went Twin be jealous, she thought. And Joe—he's always wanted to ride with Lindy. "Where are we going?" She shouted to Lindbergh.

"To China," "But I thought you dug down into the earth to get to China." "That's just a childish notion."

Twinnie felt very much ashamed of herself. She hadn't wanted to say anything foolish while she was riding in Lindy's plane.

Lindy turned around and shouted to her. "There's Ireland," he said. And looking down Twinnie saw a bright green island with shamrocks sticking up all over it.

YOUR NECK TELLS YOUR REAL BEAUTY

Many women who are interested in their complexions, from forehead to chin, forget all about their necks. Yet nothing looks so incongruous as a face carefully made up in its pink and white above a neck dark and unlovely.

The neck requires as careful grooming as the face. In the winter, especially, when a fur collar muffles it, perspiration combines dust and dyes into a dusky film. Give your neck a thorough cleansing every night with soap and water, applied with a flesh brush or a rough wash cloth. You may wish to precede this with a good cleansing cream, but be sure to finish it off with washing and a cold rinse. Perhaps a little bleach in lemon juice to three parts of water makes an effective bleach.

In the morning bath, don't slight your neck, but give it a clean start for the day's hazards. When you powder your face before going out treat your neck into camp, so we can call them as equal and it will never betray you.

Affairs of the Heart and Your Marriage Problems

Patricia Lee

Patricia Lee answers questions relating to problems of married life. Names and address should be added to letters as a mark of good faith but will not be published. Readers who desire private answers should inclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special service. On account of the large quantity of mail coming to this department, about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

Dear Patricia Lee:

I am a young married woman 23 years old, and have been married nearly seven years. I have two boys, the older 4. My husband works all the time except Sundays. He comes home from work late at night, and sometimes he is out all night. He always comes home from work tired and mostly cross. He says he feels old. I am so tired of living and quarreling this way. I never get a night out without the boys, as he is never home early, and, furthermore, he won't mind them. My mother died when I was young, and the rest of my family went back on me when I married him. My husband said he is going to drive these big trucks to New York. One night a week he will be home all night. Every other day he will be home for a few hours' sleep. When he does this I will leave him, as his place is at home nights the same as mine. If I leave him, will I be able to keep the children?—ANNA

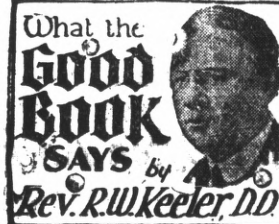

Dear Anna: It is hard to get any kind of a position nowadays and I would not advise you to leave your husband because you think he ought to be home nights. Make some arrangements to leave the children with an older girl or woman and arrange to go out yourself, but don't ask your husband to do any more. It seems to me that he has a rather hard position. Naturally he is cross when you are. Try to be happier and more cheerful. It is your job to manage the home and arrange for your own recreation. See if you can't afford 50 cents or a dollar a week to pay some one for minding the children. Marriage is hard work. Stick to it and learn how to manage it.

My Dear Miss Lee:

I am a girl 26 years of age. I met a young man the same age eighteen months ago. We fell very much in love with each other, but had frequent quarrels because he drank. He took me to visit friends six months ago and because he drank there we had a quarrel coming home. But we parted having a date the following Sunday and he never showed up since. I wrote him a letter asking for an explanation, but I received no reply. We were engaged and had saved for a home. I try hard to forget, but I can't get interested in any one else. I hope you will help me.—ELAINE

Dear Elaine: I'd like to help you. But I can't, my dear, while you persist in clinging to an old love. The young man thought more clearly and further ahead than you did. How could you consider marrying when you admit "frequent quarrels" all the way on the same subject? Heaven knows there are enough differences of opinion in married life without having one point of continuous argument. If your fiancé did not think enough of you and of his own health to give up drinking, marriage would not work the miracle. The young man might have been more courteous and talked the matter over. But since he did not, and since six months have passed, you must try to forget. Elaine. Not by "getting interested" in some one else. That can't be forced. But go in for sports; try to get ahead in business; study something new. Then forgetfulness will come, with new friends and new interests.

"THE JAZZ SINGER," starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel. It is based upon the play by Samson Raphaelson.

SYNOPSIS

Because Jackie, son of Cantor Rabinowitz, prefers jazz to synagogue music, he leaves home. Ten years elapse. Through Mary Dale, a dancer, Jackie, now Jack Robin, becomes a musical comedy jazz singer. The Cantor, discovering his son's profession, disowns him. Jack's shattering the Eve of Yom Kippur. Dilling the backer of the show, jealousy of Mary's love for Jack, withdraws his money, leaving Lee, the producer, dependent on Jack for success. The Cantor is ill and Yudel, his friend, begs Jack to sing in the synagogue that night. Torn between his desire to talk to Mary. Then his mother arrives at the theatre.

"Mama!" he cried, clasping her hands, and leaning forward to kiss her. But he remembered his make-up and stepped back, pulling her into the dressing room with him. "Jackie! This ain't you!" Mrs. Rabinowitz was holding the boy at arms' length inspecting him in a puzzled manner.

Yudel, in his turn, was almost as bewildered as Mrs. Rabinowitz. He stared at Jack uncertainly, and shook his head.

"It talks like Jackie, but it looks like a nigger!" he exclaimed finally.

"Yudel, didn't you explain to my mama?" Jack turned to the

But it was like addressing a plea to some unseeing, unbending goddess. Mrs. Rabinowitz scarcely heard the boy's words; she did not even understand what he meant. So much had happened—so many things to worry over—much great sorrow had been hers during the past two weeks that it had left her cold and numb. She knew only one thing—felt only one thing. Jackie must come home and sing in the synagogue that night, for the sake of his father. She had to make him come somehow. It didn't matter how, so long as he returned. She must not go back alone.

"You can't come!" Her voice was strained and coldly intense, as its repetitional rhythm. "You can't come? How can you say this to me, my mama? When you was a little boy we was so poor. I worked so hard all the time for you. I saved my fingers to buy you nice things. My fingers, they used to bleed. Look at my hands, Jackie! It is still there the marks." She held out her rough, work-worn hands, showing the knotted joints and the knobby fingers with the little black cuts interwoven like net work around the broken nails.

Jack bent over swiftly and took the hands with the blue veins standing out on them like have-her. He patted them tenderly. "I know, Mama, I know," he whispered hoarsely, the tears starting to his eyes.

A knock sounded at the door. Gene thrust his head into the room. "Your specialty'll be on in a minute, Mr. Robin," he announced, looking curiously over the little gathering that seemed to create an air of tense drama in that tiny room.

"All right, Gene," Jack rose wearily, his mother's hands still in his. "Mama," he turned to the figure on the chair, "I haven't time to tell you—I've got to go on. But you must try to understand, Mama. I'll explain it to you—just a minute while. Yudel—Mama," he turned for the first time since his mother's entrance to the girl. "Mary, tell my mother—"

"Wait, Jack, go out and see if I can't get them to hold it for you for a few minutes." She flashed through the room like a flaming meteor, so bright and sparkling she seemed in the dull drabness that had fallen on the room. She patted Jack's arm and smiled up at him, the brightest sort of smile, as she sped out the door and into the wings.

"And, Jackie, more your papa said," Mrs. Rabinowitz continued in that same uneasy voice that sounded so strange and unnatural. "Your papa said, 'Ask Jackie he should forgive me. He is doing things from sin, but he don't mean it. In his heart he is a Rabinowitz.' Jackie, the way I'm setting here this minute, before God, I swear it—that is what he said." She rose to her feet. Even the oath did not unsettle this supernatural calm that had settled like a cloud over the woman who must have her son back at any cost.

"I know, Mama, I believe you!" Jack's voice was near to breaking. "I believe you."

"We're waiting for you, Mr. Robin," Gene appeared in the doorway, his temper slightly ruffled. "We can't hold it any longer."

School nurse, says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress of gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless. And works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

MISS PICKFORD AS STOCK-GIRL AT CALIFORNIA

A house within a house is an important feature of Mary Pickford's latest United Artists feature, "My Best Girl," now being shown at the California Theatre. The script called for exterior scenes of an elaborate Colonial mansion during a rainstorm, and while such buildings are common enough in Hollywood, rain is nonexistent—at least during the summer, when the film was made.

To overcome this difficulty, a faithful copy of a famous Colonial home was built at the studio inside of one of the mammoth stages. Its rooftop just scraped the supporting beams of the stage, and a complete formal garden was "planted" in the front yard. With the installation of especially designed "rainmaking" apparatus, the required scenes were taken by Director Sam Taylor in a satisfactory and realistic manner, even though the sun was shining brightly outside.

"My Best Girl" is a comedy romance of the 18th and 19th centuries, in which Miss Pickford has the role of a little stock-girl in the basement of the establishment.

Other features include "The Glorious Fourth," a Hal Roach "Our Gang" comedy; current news events; and Larry Canelo, at the organ.

CONWAY TEARLE STARS IN FILM AT RICHMOND

Any person who enjoys a film of intense action, interspersed with romance, love, humor and the introduction of a phantom, will find just what he is looking for at the Richmond Theatre. Add to this a background of the exotic tropics, with palm trees, and moonlight nights, intense emotions, dancing girls in raffa skirts and flower bedecked bodies and you have Columbia Pictures' "Isle of Forgotten Women," in which Conway Tearle is starred.

Tearle creates the role of Bruce Paine, an American youth who flees the States to escape arrest and shield his father, leaving behind a beautiful and trusting fiancée, the person of Alice Calhoun, portrayed by Alice Calhoun.

Paine arrives on a small island in the Pacific and encounters John Stort, who makes things interesting for Paine during his stay on the island. Then complication follows, complication, Tearle and Paine finds danger lurk on every side, poisonous adders, fevers, crazy men and sensuous women.

die Harris keeps the audience in good humor as Billiken and Harry Semels spends most of his time wandering through the world as the spirit of the departed Peter, the moving force which lures the unsuspecting Stort to his end.

Other features include "Naughty Boy," a comedy scream; and current news events.

WOMEN'S DAY TO BE HELD MARCH 15

Women's Day will be celebrated throughout the West on March 15th. The occasion is one when tribute may be paid to Western women. Special recognition will be accorded at that time to pioneers, World War workers and mothers.

General Western offices for due observance of the event have been established in the $1,775,000 Women's Building, planned and constructed by women at Sutter and Masons Streets, San Francisco.

San Francisco has given special impetus to the celebration with a proclamation issued by Mayor James Rolph, Jr., in which he says: "Women's Day is set apart as an occasion when San Francisco, fired with the gallant spirit of our old California grantees, may bow graciously in recognition of the achievements of the women of the West."

Telegrams and letters commending the spirit of the day have been received from a score of famous women and Mayors of Western cities.

Mrs. D. E. F. Easton, member of the California Welfare Board, and noted civic leader, is the chairman of the Women's Day Committee. Other members are Mrs. Norman Walter Hall, Mrs. David Hirschler, Mrs. Felix Kahn, Dr. Edith Hammond Williams, Mrs. A. W. Stokes, Mrs. D. C. Heger and Mrs. Geoffrey Holt. Every city and club in the west is invited by the committee to give some recognition to western women on Thursday, March 15th. It has been suggested that schools, churches, radio stations, clubs and offices observe the day in some special manner.

Present Day Education Cuts Wings Of Genius

(By Universal Service)
LONDON, March 7.—Charges that instead of aiding school students the present day educational system actually cramps the personality, discourages originality, cuts the wings of genius, and shapes all on one pattern, were assailed as being utterly false by Mr. G. Smith, the head of Dulwich College, in a speech before the annual meeting of the Incorporated Association of Headmasters.

Mr. Smith declared he did not think that standardization of individuality by our system of education is a very present peril, and pointed out that there were innumerable aesthetic and emotional experiences where similarity of reaction is desirable and valuable, at least in the early years," he said.

"There is a great mass of knowledge which the experience of the race has accumulated in the past. We want our pupils to have that to begin with, and not to leave each generation to start scratch and find out all things for itself."

Possibly that is indeed of the very essence of education that it tries to accomplish in a few years for the individual what the race has taken centuries to learn. "Genius is not individualism running riot; it is the fine flower of humanity, but it grows from the common stock.

"We have during the last thirty or forty years laid a great deal more stress than we used to do on the cultivation of the senses, on the aesthetic and emotional side of our nature. Thus, in teaching literature we make it our aim to arouse interest and to cultivate appreciation.

"Paraphrasing, therefore, is an accused and murderous thing; grammar is gone; parsing and analysis are no more. I am not going to mourn over their loss if they have made room for better things.

"If for one would not willingly go back to the old ways. And yet I feel that we have lost some keenness of insight and accuracy and logic, and that our education tends to become what an old-fashioned and disgruntled schoolmaster might call sloppy and slipshod.

Civil War And Boycotts Cause Chinese Customs Drop

PEKING, March 7.—Civil war artificially aroused anti-foreign boycotts, extortionate taxation and the puerile political practices of the so-called nationalist leaders, cost the Chinese nation a loss of approximately $6,690,000 in U. S. customs revenues alone in 1927. In addition, the chaotic state which marked the past year, caused the value of the Chinese dollar to slump so that the Maritime Customs which is entrusted with meeting certain foreign obligations, was forced to pay approximately U. S. $4,951,520 more for the gold currency with which to meet payments than it did in 1926. Thus China's total loss in these two respects was U. S. $11,241,526.

That figure represents a considerable part of the main source of revenue in the country, namely the maritime customs. The total collections for 1927 were Chinese Taels 68,687,000 or approximately U. S. $45,791,333. Figuring on that basis, it can be said that the nation lost nearly one quarter of the revenue which it enjoyed in 1926.

CUSTOMS PORTS

Mr. A. H. F. Edwards, officiating Inspector General of the Chinese Maritime Customs, in his published report, lists eleven of the principal ports of collection. Six of these are within the area controlled by the Peking government while five are in the so-called nationalist section. In the north, four out of six ports showed an increase in trade during 1927. In the south, where between the Soviet Russians and the Chinese agitators business seemed to have been deliberately strangled, three out of five ports showed a decrease.

Outstanding among these suffering ports of the nationalist regime is Shanghai. Customs revenues there fell short of 1926 by U. S. $4,683,333. Hankow, another spot of nationalist experimentation produced some forty per cent. less in collections while Canton, the birthplace of the southern movement showed a decrease of approximately U. S. $1,000,000.

The northern port of Tientsin, with its auxiliary at Chinwangtao, emerged the prize-winner as to increases in revenue. Collections there rose by approximately ten per cent. Second in increase was the leased port of Dairen, the mouth of Japanese controlled Manchuria which is practically the sole portion of all China which was saved from the military oppressor in the past year.

FIGHT FOR REVENUE

The fact that each and every leader, military or political, north or south, is fighting chiefly to control one of the nation's revenues the more ironical the outstanding new producing centers, makes all truth that nationalism, after sweeping Peking from the Yangtze, gained an empty victory so far as revenue supremacy in the plum-like customs goes. With the tremendous falling off in the trade of Shanghai, Hankow and Canton, the southerners have but U. S. $2,273,000 advantage over the north.

What the nationalist experiment in Hankow cost the Chinese people can hardly be estimated. However, the death-like blow to trade is set down in hard facts. Collections in 1927 were the lowest since 1911, the year of the revolution. In three successive years the decrease has been 45 per cent.

Similarly Shanghai shows that trade even in China cannot stand the battering to which it has been subjected. Customs revenues there were lower in 1927 than they have been since 1923. More startling is the fact that despite ever known in the bulk of its trade, Shanghai showed a decrease of 21 per cent between the figures for 1926 and 1927.

Canton likewise could not escape the harvest of mismanagement, agitation and money-mad politicians. Its collections last year were the lowest since 1920 and there was a decrease of 34 per cent from the customs revenues of 1925.

Caveat Emptor

A few years ago "Let the buyer beware" was not so far from being the motto of American business. If a man set out to buy a razor he might get a very excellent one and, again, he might not. There were some very fine products. And some very poor. And there was no way of choosing the good from the bad, except by test.

Today that condition hardly exists. In every line of merchandise there are trade-marked, standardized products. Products that are unvarying in quality and performance—that can be depended upon year in and year out. When you buy them you know what they are, what they'll do, and what they cost. . . They're advertised products!

To take full advantage of this—to protect yourself—to save money—watch the advertisements! When you need anything turn to the advertising columns of this paper. Read about the things listed there. When you find the article you need, buy it—not haphazardly, but by name!

As Told to James W. Jennings

As I was drowning in the Blue river I tried to swim, but could not, and squawked for help.

Andy Anderson, physical instructor at the Y. M. C. A., now a wealthy man and one of the most prominent citizens of Lincoln, Neb. was swimming a good distance away.

A powerful swimmer, he reached me as I went under the water, brought me to shore and worked over me for three hours.

I spouted water like Bill McCarney does words, but came to and spat up a good portion of the river for some days after.

I was surprised when I saw the river sparkling under a summer

sun. I thought I had swallowed most of it.

My rescuer smiled at me and offered to bet that I was through attempting to become a swimmer.

Not me. I'll keep pegging away at anything until I am convinced I'm licked. Then, whether it's a fight game or business I will be the first to congratulate the winner.

But I hated that river and decided to conquer it.

Three years later, Anderson sent Art and me to a summer camp where it cost plenty of money and was patronized by rich girls and boys.

Anderson paid our expenses—maybe that made me a professional—and, oh! how I worry about that now.

At the end of the season they had an athletic carnival. Crack high school champions were entered, yet I won every event on the program—long-distance swimming, imitation life saving, 440-yard run and a mile race.

I also won the fancy diving event, but rarely ever mention it for fear some of the Broadway-wise-crackers might throw it up to me now.

That's how I made the Blue river blue. I can do most anything in that river now.

How Ace started his boxing career will be the third installment of his life history.

CAL. BOXERS MEET CARDS AT BERKELEY

BERKELEY, March 6.—California's boxing team will engage in its third meet of the season Friday night in Harmon gymnasium when it engages the Cardinal boxers of Stanford University.

This is the first time that the two schools have met except in tournaments for a number of years and a number of hard fought bouts seem likely.

The Bears, coached by Stanley Jones, a former heavyweight champion of the Orient, showed their mettle by taking five out of seven bouts from the Aggies of Davis Farm, while that outfit took Stanford into camp four bouts out of seven.

California lost its second meeting of the year to the University of Washington when the Bears were compelled to forfeit the heavyweight bout. In these bouts Captain Frank Ribbel won his thirty-second intercollegiate victory.

Ribbel seems to be set again upon capturing the crown of the Pacific Coast welters, which he won for himself last season as a junior.

Another coast champion will probably be on hand in the Bear Cardinal bouts. He is Norman Fain, Stanford captain, who has season became Far Western intercollegiate light heavyweight champion. Fain has not been in shape the past few days and there is a possibility that he will be unable to compete for Coach Harry Malone's string.

Each team will be represented by one Oriental. John Sano, Stanford bantamweight, has gained quite a reputation this season while the Bears have a fast Japanese boy, Koboyashi, in the flyweight division.

The Stanford team lost the services of an excellent coach, when Fidel La Barba, retired flyweight champion and Stanford student, took leave of absence. La Barba promised to help Harry Malone in conditioning his squad.

Contra Costa Golf Club Handicap Tourney Sunday

Next Sunday, March 11th will be another red letter day in the history of the Contra Costa Golf Club. A handicap membership tournament under new rules and handicaps on the course, bridge in afternoon at the club house for the ladies, lunch with coffee served by the club and a talk at 1:30 p. m. by one of the directors, Mr. A. B. Tinning, are all on the program. Silver cups will be given to the winners of three flights, each of which consists of players classified according to handicaps so that players with high handicaps are sure of winning at least two of the prizes offered. For once, the low handicap men will have to take a back seat in the golfing events of the club.

In his talk at 1:30 p. m. at the club house, Mr. Tinning will discuss golfing in general and the activity and membership of the Contra Costa Golf Club in particular. The club is making every effort to cater to the wishes of its members, and feels that a first hand discussion with members and families on the club grounds will bring this about in the best way.

Wesley Cagers Praise Winners
Editor of the Record-Herald, Richmond, California.
Dear Sir:

In reading the account of the final game between the Grace Lutheran and the Wesley Methodist basketball teams at the Y. M. C. A. gym last night, I find that your reporter was incorrectly informed as to the final scores and the character of the game.

In justice to the boys of the Wesley Methodist team, who have played a fine brand of basketball throughout the season, I think you ought to make a correction in your next issue.

The final score was not 25 to 10, but 28 to 25. Without seeking to detract from the splendid basketball displayed by the Grace Lutherans, any one who attended the game knows that the Wesley Methodist team, although outweighted 10 to 15 pounds per man, played a fast game every minute, and the result was in doubt until the final whistle.

Grace Lutheran church has a right to be proud of their team.

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters
Musterole, made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, will do all the work of the old-fashioned mustard plaster—without the blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from bronchitis, sore throat, coughs, colds, croup, neuralgia, headache, congestion, rheumatism, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, and all aches and pains. It may prevent pneumonia. All drug stores—35c and 65c jars and tubes—hospital size $3.
Better than a mustard plaster
MUSTEROLE
WILL NOT BLISTER

Roll one with P.A.!!

OPEN the P.A. package and treat yourself to a fragrance you'll never forget. Now... put a pinch in a paper and roll. Notice how easy P.A. rolls. That's because it's crimp-cut, the logical form for home-rolled cigarettes. Light up and get that wonderful taste of wonderful tobacco. Cool and refreshing as a dip in the surf. Mellow and mild as April sun. Mild, but with a full, round body that puts pleasure into every pull. You can't beat P.A. for makin's. Beat it? Say, you can't catch up to it! Prince Albert makes a jimmy-pipe perform, too. Try P.A. both ways. That's a tip!

OCB
"Where are the papers?"
Here they are—OCBs, made in France by the celebrated Bolloré Mills, expressly for R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. Put some P.A. in an OCB paper. Watch it lie down and roll up into the best home-rolled smoke ever. 150 leaves, 5c, where you buy your tobacco. Ask for OCBs in the handy book.

PRINCE ALBERT

HIGH STUDENTS START BANKING BY NEW PLAN

Systematic saving by the students of the Richmond Union High School will begin as soon as the plan for the deposit of the accounts can be worked out by the Commercial department of the high school. This was the announcement made by Theo Madson, dean of boys at the high school following the presentation of the idea to the school, by Miss Beth McDonald, Miss Arletta Conn, and Ed Drew yesterday.

Miss McDonald spoke to the students on the value of saving in high school. Drew showed the relation that exists between systematic saving and school spirit, and Miss Conn urged that the school get behind the proposed plan and be 100 per cent in the matter of school deposits.

Plans are being made by the Commercial department for the handling of the accounts. Tellers will be appointed by the teachers, and all transactions will be made by the students. Miss McDonald of the American Trust Company at Tenth Street and Macdonald avenue will have charge of the school deposits at the bank.

Chief Cooper To Address Legion

W. P. Cooper, chief of the Richmond fire department, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Richmond Post of the American Legion to be held in Memorial hall tonight, it was announced by Commander Charles W. W. St. John, yesterday. At the meeting of the post March 22, Phil Dodson, department commander will be the special guest of honor.

Plans to engage in activities are under consideration by the members, who plan to have a bowling team and a quartet.

Social Service Expends $400

Superior Court decision refusing a writ of mandate to compel the Contra Costa board of supervisors to issue a franchise for a Carquinez Strait bridge to the firm after the board had thrice denied a permit.

When the court's decision was made the Contra Costa board had pending before it the application of the Richmond-San Rafael Ferry Company and the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge, Inc., for a franchise to build a Marin-Contra Costa span. Because the supervisors were doubtful of their position in view of the situation created by the court's decision, the situation confronting the supervisors was later remedied, however, when Roy Long of Berkeley, president of the bridge firm, and Charles Van Damme, head of the ferry company subsequently filed individual applications for a franchise.

Among attorneys who have briefs with the court on behalf of clients are J. E. Rodgers and A. E. Bray of Martinez, Dudley Sales, Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro; McCutcheon, Olney, Mannon & Greene, and Ellis & Orrick.

The Berkeley city planning commission asked that immediate attention be given to the proposition. In the plan proposed by the commission, the street would be widened 8 feet on both sides, giving the roadway 76 feet in width. The 20 foot sidewalks in the district are unnecessary, according to the commission, and will permit the widening of the avenue without any inconvenience to the pedestrians.

The answer was "yes." What distance in nautical miles can an ordinary contact boat travel an hour. The jury fixed this speed as 10 miles an hour.

The verdict ends the first trial of its kind in the country. The case has been bitterly fought, by the Government. The Federal attorneys introduced testimony of confessed rum runners in an attempt to prove that the Coal Harbor was within an hour's sailing time from port by fast "contact" boats used by smugglers.

The matter has been pending since 1925, and during that time the Coal Harbor has been anchored in the bay under Federal libel. This libel must be lifted before she is free to sail.

The captain and crew have been under bond during that period. They were indicted a month after the seizure of the vessel, and their attorneys, Harold Faulkner and James O'Connor, refused to let them plead on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction. The trial to determine the jurisdiction of the court resulted.

International complications have been precipitated in event that the case went against the government. This prediction was recalled yesterday by the fact that T. E. Cormac, British consul, was an interested spectator of the proceedings during the whole session of the court.
